Power in Your Hands

MANAGER'S COLUMN

JEREMY HUHNSTOCK

General Manager

One of the most frequently asked questions a cooperative employee is asked is, what makes electric co-ops different than other types of utilities? This month, I thought I'd tell you a few of the differences.

Because we're a co-op, we operate a little differently than other utilities, for example, municipalities or investor-owned utilities. Traverse Electric's decisions are made locally, by directors who also live right here in our community. Everyone who pays to receive electricity from the co-op is a member. When you pay your electric bill each month, your money stays here to pay for the electricity used, or to make improvements to our local system to strengthen service reliability. The money you pay the co-op doesn't line the pockets of shareholders five states away. Any margins TEC doesn't utilize is given back in patronage capital or capital credits. We're a co-op, and we exist to provide a service to you, our local members.

You may notice that throughout the year, we schedule opportunities for you to attend co-op events, like our annual meeting, district meetings, etc. so we can hear from you. My door is always open to meet and listen to your feedback or just to chat. I'm new to the coop and area, and am learning on the go! Electric cooperatives are very similar, but very different at the same time.

Our success lies in your satisfaction, which is why we offer these opportunities to engage and listen to what you have to say. Because you're part of an electric cooperative, you can count on our team to maintain local jobs, at-cost electricity and first-class service, no matter what the economy and supply chain issues (this is still a huge struggle) throw at us.

TEC is striving to keep our costs as low as possible so we can keep more money in your pocket. We want to help you maximize the value you can get from our services and offerings. For example, we can help you save on energy bills through our load control program and energy efficiency rebates. If you want to receive important information from TEC, such as power restoration updates and tree trimming crew alerts, please follow our Facebook page.

Please know that you, the members of Traverse Electric; are at the heart of everything we do. Co-ops adhere to seven guiding cooperative principles that reflect core values of honesty, transparency, equity, inclusiveness and service.

We exist to serve you and provide the quality, reliable, friendly service you expect and deserve. While we've grown over the years, we're still driven by the same guiding principles to serve our community. We hope to see or hear from you soon. This co-op was created for you, the members. The power is in your hands. ▀

Energy Efficiency Tip of the Month

Did you know fall is the perfect time to schedule a tune-up for your heating system? Home heating accounts for a large portion of winter energy bills, and no matter what kind of system you have, you can save energy and money by regularly maintaining your equipment.

Combining proper equipment maintenance and upgrades with recommended insulation, air sealing and thermostat settings can save about 30% on your energy bills.
